Though CCA is a relatively new partner to California, the company is not a new partner budget constraints on new correctional facility construction. Today, eight states, including California, partner with CCA for out-of-state placement, involving more than nearly 9,100 offenders. These offenders are located at many of the 65 facilities that CCA operates throughout the country. At least seven other states previously have utilized CCA's out-of-state management services to provide temporary immediate relief for their correctional systems.

Flexibility and Service for California at CCA Facilities

California has contracted with CCA for the housing of up to 7,772 inmates. As of October 2007, California has more than 1,300 offenders in three CCA facilities (Tallahatchie, West Tennessee and Florence). California anticipates utilizing available bed capacity at CCA's North Fork facility as well. Additionally, CCA is constructing the 3,060-bed La Palma Correctional Center in Eloy, AZ, that is expected to be fully utilized by CDCR.
